Review

01/22/2025

All my relationships ended after four years. It was always the girls breaking up. They also always came back at some point saying they regret leaving and how it was a mistake.

That was very annoying because it again made me sad and angry all over again.

Anyways now I'm older and I don't really care anymore about anything

Life is not about what was missed, but about what you create with what remains. Go and do something that will make yourself proud! Don't let life have regrets. ❤️
